RICE UNIVERSITY COMMUNITY OF ASIAN ALUMNI

Dear Friend,

As a member of the organizing committee of the Rice University Community of Asian Alumni (RUCAA), I ask that you take a moment to secure your place at an extraordinary event to take place on Saturday, September 15, 2012 by making an early commitment to attend and to support our program.

Asian alumni and students are an important part of the Rice story. Together we will explore our journey with a special presentation by Ed Chen '59. We will also visit with Dr. Anne Chao '05 to learn about the Chao Center's Houston Asian-American Archive Project and with current Asian students to hear about their experiences.

Guests will delight in visiting with former classmates and engaging with other alumni and friends during the reception and presentation at Herring Hall followed by a lunch in the Rice Faculty Club. Our keynote speaker will be Marinda Li Wu, President-Elect of the American Chemical Society. Ms. Wu is founder and president of Science is Fun! in Orinda, California.

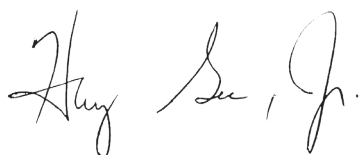

This event kicks off the RUCAA centennial activities, which will continue with the university-wide Centennial Celebration scheduled for October 10–14, 2012.

Enclosed you will find a variety of ways to support and contribute to the event. We hope that you will consider joining us at a Sponsor level, which will allow us to invite current Asian students to attend the presentations and luncheon.

If you should have questions, please contact David Medina, Director of Multicultural Community Relations at 713-348-6753 or dmedina@rice.edu. A formal invitation is forthcoming — save the date!

We look forward to visiting with you.

Sincerely,

Harry Gee, Jr. '60

Chair
